MASQUERADE

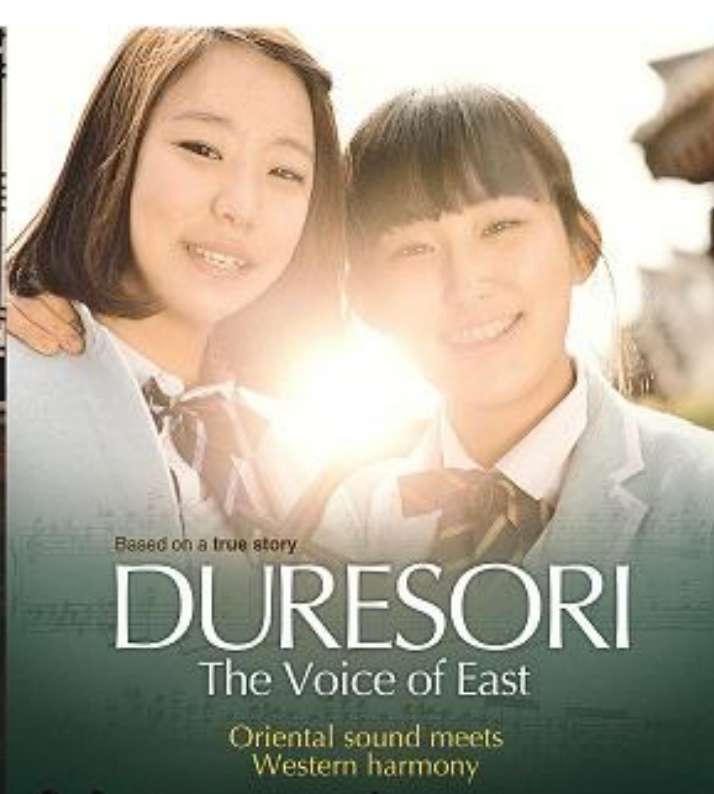

Genre: Drama, History/ Release Date: September 13, 2012

Director: Choo Chang-min

Cast: Lee Byung-hun, Ryu Seung-ryong, Han Hyo-joo

Showtime: October 27, Tuesday – 17:30-19:30

The paranoid 15th ruler of Korea's Joseon Dynasty, King Gwanghae (LEE Byung-hun), orders his chief secretary Heo Gyun (RYOO Seung-ryong) to find him a double in order to evade the constant threat of assassination. Heo Gyun finds Ha-seon, a performer of satirical farces who bears a remarkable resemblance to the king. Just as feared, Gwanghae is poisoned shortly thereafter. The chief secretary proposes Ha-seon fill the role of the king until the bed-ridden monarch recovers fully, and grooms Ha-seon to act every bit the part. While assuming the role of ruler at his first official appearance, Ha-seon begins to ponder the intricacies of the problems debated in his court. Being fundamentally more humanitarian than Gwanghae, Ha-seon's affection and appreciation of even the most minor servants slowly changes morale in the palace for the better. However, the king's chief opposition, Park Chung-seo (KIM Myung-gon), notices the sudden shift in the king's behavior and starts to ask questions.

DURESORI: The Voice of the East

Genre: Drama, Documentary/ Release Date: May 10, 2012

Director: Cho Jung-rae

Cast: Kim Seul-gi, Cho Ah-reum, Ham Hyun-sang

Showtime: October 28, Wednesday – 17:30-19:30

Seul-ki and Ah-reum are in their final year at Korea's much revered National High School of the Traditional Arts, and like other teenagers their age, they are stressing over the upcoming college entrance exam. During their final summer, they are forced to join the school choir in order to fill a remaining requirement. Their instructor, Professor HAM, uses an unorthodox approach, blending the principles of classical Western music with traditional Korean song. Well-versed in Korea's traditional arts, they are reluctant to accept Ham's hybrid style. They refuse to understand chords and progressions, and don't see the point of singing in chorus. However, with time, Ham begins to open their minds to the potential of new musical forms... just as the school decides to cancel the class's annual summer concert.

THE FACE READER
